

Every second Wednesday of the month, we deliver newsletter that contains few sections including what is new in the industry, what is new in our company, an optional case study and a quote. We hope you enjoy and learn. If you have any feedback, feel free to reply to this email. You can also contact your account manager or point person at FSD Solutions.

New Trend in the Industry - iPhone 4

Two days ago (Monday June 7, 2010), Steve Jobs, CEO of Apple, announced the brand new iPhone. It's called iPhone 4 and it has many new features. Some of the important ones are below.

- HD Video Recording: The iPhone 4 can record in high-definition video (at 720p for 30 frames per second)
- Video Calling: It is called facetime. (not to confuse with facebook). You can have a video call using its front-facing camera.

- Higher Resolution camera with flash: 5-megapixel camera on the back with an LED Flash
- Multitasking: Now finally you can run your favorite third-party apps in iPhone— and switch between them instantly — without slowing down the performance of the foreground
- Retina Display: 960-by-640-pixel resolution squeezed into 3.5 inches providing four times better resolution in the same screen size

Opportunities: It's always a good idea to build apps that make use of new features when they come out. Competition is likely to be less fierce in the beginning, and since Apple has introduced those features that have been requested most by users, you can count on the fact that there will be considerable user demand for the new functionality.

What is new in our company? - .NET and PHP Development Team Growth

We are hiring PHP and .NET Developers to meet growing demands of web development projects from the customers. These are the two core competencies that we have at FSD and we want to make sure that we expand on them. We want to provide best talent and resources in these two core web technologies.

Quote of the Month

When I hear somebody sigh, "Life is hard," I am always tempted to ask, "Compared to what?" - Sydney J. Harris
